

Digital Rights Management Statement

To answer the increasing demand for electronic resources, CCCB Publications is now offering digital editions of certain of its books directly from its website. Following the examples of other publishers, CCCB Publications has decided, for the time being, to offer these materials in PDF format, without the constraint of Digital Rights Management (DRM).

We hope our customers will appreciate the convenience of having access to our publications from any of their electronic devices, allowing them to print pages, make notes, and save documents.

We trust that our clients will make honest use of our digital editions. These resources are copyrighted by the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (Concacan Inc.), and licensed for personal use only.

All publishing rights are reserved by the CCCB. Requests for permission to use any CCCB electronic resources in part or in their entirety are to be addressed to:
